ROADMAP TO GIVING

12 APRIL – SHAVUOT

CHALLENGE YOURSELF TO MAKE GIVING THE NEW NORMAL!

Giving is a mindset.

Being a giver means that you enter every situation, conversation and experience thinking: 'what can I do here to help someone else?'

It doesn't take a huge amount of effort. You just have to ask yourself that one small question and in doing so, every situation can be turned into an opportunity to give – it's up to you to make this transformation.

You might think that it will be difficult to change your mindset. Luckily, lockdown has given us an amazing opportunity to introduce giving into our daily lives.

As the country reopens from April 12th, you can approach each activity with a clean slate. You can enter each situation and ask yourself 'what can I do here to help someone else?' If you do, your whole life will change. Your relationships, conversations and experiences will be transformed. We know that you can rise to the challenge!

7 STEPS

You're just seven steps from becoming a giving champion.

Listed opposite are seven things that will change from April 12th and seven ways that you can change yourself through giving. These are split into two categories: day-to-day tasks and (overleaf) challenger tasks.

If, over the next few months, you complete all seven day-to-day tasks and one challenger task, you will receive a Pizaza voucher.

Log your achievement through the GIFT website: jgift.org/roadmap

If you can't complete one specific day-to-day task, be creative and find something else to do which is similar to the suggested task: you can still win the voucher!

We can't wait to hear about the amazing progress you've made!

This challenge is just the start. Be creative and find new ways to help those around you. Create the habit of asking at least once a day: 'what can I do here to help someone else?'. Change your life. Become a giver!
